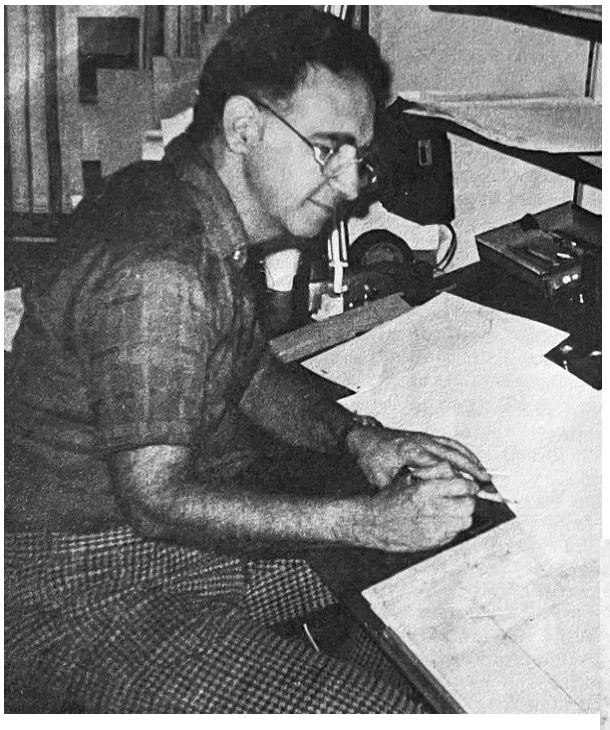
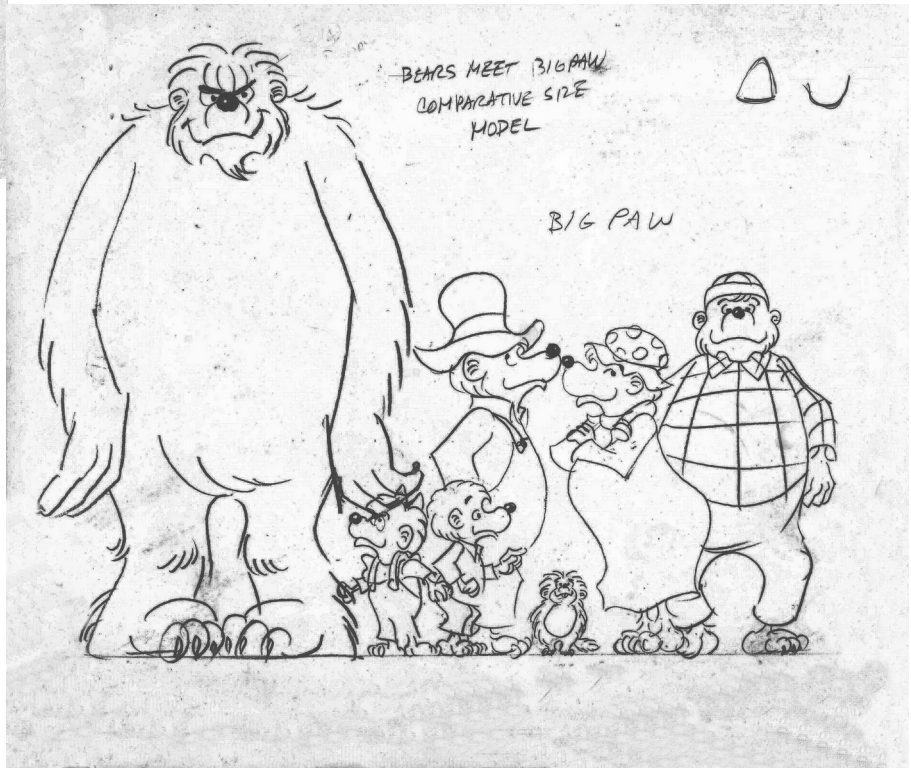
Going into 1983, Jack Dazzo worked free-lance for IF Studios, where his good friend Carlos Sanchez was cameraman and a partner with Lew Cohen. Bill Feigenbaum Productions called Dazzo in often. Sal Butta and Rudy Tomaselli kept him busy at Cel-Art. Productions. In May Buzzco Productions started throwing teleblurb work Jack Dazzo's way. MTV just revitalized hand-drawn animation, and Buzzco played no small part.



That July Dazzo began a three month run on staff at Buzzco as they started in on a BERENSTAIN BEARS television special.



His journal resumes:
